Jingle bells, Jingle bells, Air Pollution all the way...

This festive season, post Diwali our joy is clouded by the grim reality of the hazardous AQI levels. Together, let's advocate for cleaner air by making responsible choices. One such choice is going to be available to us very soon in the form of the Metro commuting option. Ms. Karin Dutta has very kindly shared with us the Metro Project completion status and timelines, the finishing line of which is just around the corner. So, let's anticipate a shift towards cleaner commuting. Embrace the Metro, reduce vehicular pollution, and gift our city a breath of fresh air. You can read about it under Metro Updates.

Well, what is Christmas without a Christmas Cake? So, bring out your baking gloves and try out Meesha's Sinful Christmas Cake recipe under our Recipe Stories feature. We have got you covered for this festive season with a page dedicated to Home Chefs and all the delectables you can order from their warm kitchens.

Installation of Heritage Poles in the locality and illumination of our gardens has been a very positive step taken by Mrs. Harshita Narwekar and Mr. Makarand Narwekar under the guidance of Hon'ble Speaker MLA, Rahul Narwekar. You can read about it under Inaugurations.

This month on, we have three new features. One is, Down Memory Lane, where we invite Cuffe Paradians to share with us nostalgic moments and images of a Cuffe Parade That Was! The second is, It Happened to Me, a slice-of-life section where readers can share some funny, or out of the ordinary incidents from their lives. And third is, Pet Corner, where we will be giving interesting and useful writeups for all our animal lovers in Cuffe Parade.

Our other regular features, Awards and Achievements, Yoga for Everyday Wellness, Inspiring Stories and Book Launch should keep you glued to the magazine.

While signing off the editorial of the last issue of the year, we would like to thank you all for encouraging us to come out with new features and content which is not only interesting but also beneficial to the readers. Email us on cprainfoletter@gmail.com if you wish to associate with the magazine. Be our Raju Reporter. Bring us some taaza khabar and we may just publish it.

Thank you for being part of our journey. Wishing you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Hello Cuffe Paradians,

How are all of you doing? Hope that Deepavali was amazing for all.

Wanted to speak on a few issues, which I have had a chance to this time, due to fewer CPRA events to talk about. One is, pollution which increases around Deepavali, which is further messed up due to chemical based Chinese crackers which have created a different smoke-based odour instead of the better Sivakasi, India based gun powder crackers. Of course it's best not to burst crackers at all.

We get very charged up on WhatsApp chats and accept so much without thinking, and fall in the trap of buying cheaper products from China which is bad for our environment and in the bargain, we are doing long term collateral damage in our greed. Penny wise pound foolish. Isn't it?

We shouldn't mix issues related to nature and pollution with religious festivals because we all need to, together save our planet. Let us lead mankind to a better and secure future on Planet Earth.

Now my Beautiful Cuffe Parade is also being termed as an ageing old man's area...Why? Because the younger generation doesn't have facilities which excite them. Do we want to be an Old Age Home or do we want to be a vibrant and amazing neighbourhood? Please decide and let us know so that we can plan accordingly.

Lot of people protest about the upcoming upgradations being the Football stadia or Pet n Animal led initiatives. But without these initiatives how can we move forward and bring back the old Glory of Cuffe Parade or increase the real estate values of our Amazing Cuffe Parade?

Come, let's all work together and make our dreams come true.

Looking forward to our website which should be ready soon.

Regards,
Manoj Poddar

RECIPE STORIES

Meesha's Sinful Christmas Dark Fruit Cake

The Dark fruit cake recipe is a simple ancient traditional Christmas cake. The cake recipe is usually passed down generations in each family to celebrate the essence of Christmas. This recipe is a basic classic version that turns out rich, moist and dense.

Ingredients

Flour (maida)	100 gms
Baking Powder	1 tsp
Mixed fruit	200-300 gms
Eggs	2 medium
Butter	100 gms
Milk	20 mls
Brown Sugar	80 gms
Mixed Spice powder	¼ tsp
Vanilla essence	5 mls
Caramel colour	7.5 mls

Meesha's Sinful Dark Fruit Cake

Method

Combine butter and sugar in a pan on low heat. Add in the mixed fruit, vanilla essence and caramel colour. Bring the mixture to a boil and let it cool.

Slightly whisk the eggs in a separate bowl and keep aside. In another bowl, sift in the flour, baking powder and spice mix. Once the mixture has cooled, add in eggs and mix well. Fold in the flour, add in the milk to smoothen the mixture.

Bake at 250°-300° for 50 minutes to an hour or more if required. Check with a toothpick if it has baked right through. Unmould the cake once cooled only. Rum can be topped up if need be later and wrapped in foil.

METRO UPDATES

The Cuffe Parade metro station has dominated our area, realigned our roads and been the topic of our conversations since 2015

During this time, we, the CHS's that lie on either side of the station under the banner of ACCPR (Association of Colaba and Cuffe Parade Residents) decided to be proactive and involved in what was going to be, a first of its kind project.

Through every stage of construction, from saving the Colaba Woods, regulating noisy work at night, to insisting on provision for underground parking, and providing inputs for the surface layout, we have tried to stay involved, ably supported and facilitated by Shri Rahul Narvekar, Hon. Speaker of the Maharashtra State Assembly and Mrs. Harshita Ashwin Narvekar, our Ex-Corporator.

At our last meeting with Mrs. Ashwini Bhide, MD MMRCL, and earlier with Additional Commissioner BMC, organised by Mrs. Harshita Ashwin Narvekar, and attended by Mr. Parag Udani, Ms. Manjeet Kripalani, Ms. Medha Patnaik, Ms Hansu Pardiwala (Hon. Secretary CPRA) and myself (Ms. Karin Dutta), we voiced our concerns regarding completion time lines and the worsening pollution. She gave us the following assurances:

Points discussed at the meeting with Mrs. Ashwini Bhide:

1. The Metro site is a major contributor to the poor AQI in Colaba/ Cuffe Parade. What measures are being taken to address this?

They have already started monitoring the AQI at the site. They are in the process of acquiring a digital display for the AQI Levels and equipment to control the pollution.

2. When to expect the return of our road (Capt. PP Marg)

Most of the road resurfacing is done. It will be returned in sections after utilities are installed. This should be Completed by December '23.

On the subject of the slip road (running from Venus to President) in a deplorable condition, Mrs. Bhide is taking up the matter with the concerned party.

Metro Work in progress

3. What is the time line for the completion of the Metro line 3?

The Metro line will be fully operational (Cuffe Parade/Seepz) by October 2024.

Trials from Seepz to BKC start Feb-March 2024.

Trials from Cuffe Parade to BKC start June-July 2024.

4. Landscaping of the surface

This will begin once the roads are returned. Furthermore, they have to wait for the new trees which will be transplanted on site to attain the girth as specified by the High Court.

Finally, we have the finish line in sight!

GARDEN UPDATES

Bay View Marina's Warm Festive Look...

The Beautifully lit up gazebo and entrance of the Bay View Marina Garden

This Diwali saw a very brightly lit up Bay View Marina Garden, thanks to the efforts of Laura D'Souza, Hansu Pardiwala and Aarti Wadhvani. The garden had a very festive mood with the pretty Diwali ball lanterns in the gazebos the walking track as well as, at the entrance gate. These lights promise to illumine the garden bringing cheer to all who visit the park, right through the Christmas season and the New Year.

INAUGURATIONS

Friday 23rd November 2023, saw an Illumination and Beautification Drive with the ground breaking ceremonies by our Ex-Corporators Mrs. Harshita Narwekar and Mr. Makarand Narwekar, under Hon'ble Speaker MLA Rahul Narwekarji's guidance.

It started with the Installation of Heritage Poles on Madame Cama Road at the Cooperage Garden Corner, as well as the beautification & illumination of Cooperage Garden. This was followed by the illumination of G D Somani Marg from Sadhu T L Vaswani Road to World Trade Centre. And finally, the tour ended with the illumination of Colaba Woods Garden ground breaking ceremony.

Installation of these heritage poles and illuminating these roads enhances both aesthetics and safety within the area. The purpose of introducing good lighting to Cooperage as well as the beautiful Colaba Woods gardens is to create a safer and more inviting atmosphere for community members to enjoy the green space.

November 2nd saw the inauguration of the Bayview Marina Garden Lighting project. It was attended by BEST officers, CPRA members, and residents.

This initiative not only enhances the garden's beauty but also contributes to safety and security in our community. Well-lit public spaces discourage anti-social activities, creating a safer and more inviting environment. It's a great example of what we can achieve when the community, local authorities, and residents work together for our collective benefit.

Ground Breaking Ceremony at Colaba Woods, Cuffe Parade

CPRA and fellow Cuffe Paradians wish to thank Mrs. Harshita Narwekar and Mr. Makarand Narwekar for their continuous efforts in beautifying our locality and making it a safe place to live in.

All is Bright!

A Recollection of Fond Memories of a Cuffe Parade That Was!

In post-independence India, in my early teenage years (1954) my earliest memory of Cuffe Parade was the first 4 blocks of Badhwar Park Apartments for the Middle/ Senior Railway Officers on the old defunct Colaba Railway Station premises and tracks. They were the very first apartments in the area which began and ended with stately mansions on Cuffe Parade (Imperial Mansions, again Railways at the start and Windermere at the far end) housing prominent citizens. The sea on the other side with marshland in the area where new Cuffe Parade blocks came up later was all one could see, a few fishing boats near Badhwar Park notwithstanding.

Badhwar Park stood at the confluence of Foreshore Road which began with Y. B. Chavan Auditorium and Wodehouse Road which started from Regal Cinema and Majestic Hotel. In the early 50's when there was no Mantralaya, Foreshore Road had one landmark, the Pagoda restaurant which did not last too long and the Gowalia swimming baths (where water polo was born in Bombay) flanked on the sea, by Friends Cabin run by some Parsi couple who cooked up delicious snacks including the best samosas in town. Many a teenage romance were kindled here. Foreshore Road merged into Cuffe Parade at Badhwar Park junction whereas Wodehouse Road meandered down past New Lord & Co. and Charagh Din and Rustom & Co., Wodehouse Road ran parallel to Cuffe Parade and ended at South lands near the Colaba post office. Beyond this was the Army and Navy land, barren except for some barracks and some Army Commanders' bungalows. Cuffe Parade had some memorable folk living there. Apart from the Railway gentry pampered and brought up by the British who ran India's transport network, writers like Mulk Raj Anand, musicians like Zubin Mehta, industrialists like CIPLA's Hamied family, resided in those stately mansions. The sea front was dotted by a wide, elevated walkway with steps from the road. Evenings were like Marine Drive today minus the masses. A genteel but sometimes mischievous crowd mingling happily with ancient, mostly Parsi folk in the evenings. Numbers were small and traffic even less.

The best Bhelpuri in town was not in Chowpatty or Bandra (Elco Arcade). It was the work of a singular, humble bhैया located opposite Palm Springs (1st of the concrete jungle that sprang up later) on the sea front where the sea separated from the marshlands.

No other food or outlet existed. This tranquil scene changed in the 60's, when reclamation began and the Back Bay as it was called i.e., the sea flanked by Nariman Point on one side and Cuffe Parade on the other began to disappear yielding hundreds of acres to greedy Govt functionaries and hungry land sharks & developers. In the early 70's came up Vazifdar's Palm Springs followed by Mehr Dad & Mehr Naz and soon after the Nagpal's President Hotel (later to become a Taj operated property). The rest is History known to all who read this brief recollection of memories from 1954 to 1974. The author lived at Badhwar Park later at Imperial Mansions and much later at Palm Springs. The dubious privilege of being a denizen of both old and the new Cuffe Parade.

My journey: Learning, Sharing, and Unveiling Magic!!

I am Elisha Rajpal, a student at Cathedral and John Connon School, and my story is one marked by curiosity, compassion, and a touch of magic—quite literally.

My foray into the world of magic tricks commenced with YouTube tutorials. Though I initially encountered challenges, the small triumphs fueled my excitement and eagerness to master even more. Beginning with playing tricks on my younger sister and parents, my sleight of hand baffled everyone. Soon, I found myself showcasing my tricks to friends, sparking their fascination.

I take great pleasure in leveraging my hobbies for a good cause. Amid the pandemic, I taught youngsters aged 6 to 13 how to solve the Rubik's Cube for a modest fee, directing the proceeds towards charity. As my magic continued to captivate, I decided to channel it for a noble purpose again. At the Maker Tower market, organized for charity, I set up a stall, captivating guests of all ages with my magic. It was immensely gratifying to observe the varied reactions of shock and amazement from the audience. People wanted to inspect the cards, asked me to repeat the tricks, and some were left speechless in disbelief.

Sports is another realm where I thrive, actively participating in my school's squash and football teams. Amidst the digital clamor of our world, I find solace in hands-on hobbies and sports.

I've been honing my skills in drumming, and as I progress each day, I aspire to join a band and share my music with others. Given the opportunity, I would also love to teach the drums to underprivileged children at a music school.

Through performing magic tricks, I've come to realize that it's not merely about mastering the trick itself, but also about being calm and composed, captivating the audience, and, most importantly, making them believe in magic. It's not just about the magic, the Rubik's cube, or the drums; it's about the journey of enchanting curious minds and hearts. I've learned that learning, sharing, and making a positive impact are not only

Elisha Rajpal at her magical best fulfilling but also a source of immense joy. I share this to inspire others to engage in small acts of kindness, creating magical moments that can have a positive impact on us and the world around us.

BOOK LAUNCH

Be bold, be fearless... be Audacious, says Author, Azeema Hussein

My second children's book, Audacious!© is the story of Shakti, a precocious 7 year-old girl. She is the smartest kid among her peers. Some believe she may be over smart. Her audacity leaves the audience of a puppet show stunned and almost dethrones a powerful person.

Audacious!© celebrates individualism by highlighting the importance of questioning the status quo.

When I'm asked where the inspiration for stories like these comes from, I have a very simple answer. I'm fortunate to be surrounded by amazing people. Strong and courageous women, sometimes unpopular and 'much too vocal for their times' and secure, supportive men who have spent their lives in the 'shadow' of these dynamic women.

Audacious is an attempt to capture the courage and spunk of young children especially girls (because let's face it, it is tougher for them), who have the strength to forge their own paths with or without the support of their families. While these books are for children, they are to be enjoyed by everyone. My books are age-agnostic. I mean, who doesn't love rhymes?!

To paraphrase Katherine Rundell, albeit badly, 'you should read children's books even though you are old and wise'. She's made a very good case for it in her book. You must take a look. See, it's a habit!

A True Story

Do miracles happen? In my view, yes. This is a true story of what happened to me in the month of October 2022.

As a frequent visitor to London, I was visiting the city after a gap of three years due to Covid. The last time I visited was in 2019 September. I was all excited and as usual I picked up my favorite lodging near Hyde Park.

I was to attend an event held in one of the halls of House of Commons. I was informed that since the event starts at 7:30p.m. I cannot reach the venue prior to 7:00p.m. and not later than 7:29p.m. and the doors will be closed exactly at 07:30p.m.; though dressed up and ready to move I was a little laid back because of the strict timings. At 6:30p.m. I asked the reception to fetch me a taxi. Till 06:45p.m. no taxi was in sight and the reception informed me that they were unable to get one due to the peak hours. Disheartened whether I will miss the event since the door closes at 7:30p.m., I ran to the road to hail a taxi. Alas! Suddenly it started raining and I had to go inside and get an umbrella from the reception. As luck would have it, at about 07:00p.m. I got a taxi and was rushing to the House of Commons.

To ensure that I reached on time I was constantly on my phone and through google maps I was trying monitor the time it would take for me to reach in front of the House of Commons. The rain was not subsiding and all of a sudden it turned dark. In the meantime, I sitting in the taxi I called my cousin who is a resident near Hyde Park and informed him that I was on my way to the event, and would not be reachable till 09:30p.m. since we had promised to meet after the event. The call didn't go through.

Exactly at 07:23p.m. the taxi dropped me at the House of Commons. Carefully, I picked up my umbrella which had to be returned to the hotel and moved for security check. It was at that point of time I realized that I had left my phone in the taxi. Thoroughly upset and fully knowing the fact that I could not retrace my steps to reach the place where I got off from to look for the taxi since I did not know the details of the taxi. In a bad mood, I had no other option but to enquire with the policeman standing at the event gate and the security personnels who were checking the guests as to how to get back or report the loss of my mobile phone. My heart sank when they told me that the chances of getting back the phone were slim and the only ray of hope I could still hang on to was to go to the Taxi Union Office at Baker Street and inform them. And if the Taxi driver had returned the phone I would be able to collect it. At that point I thought about our Good Samaritan, Mumbai Police who will help us to at least note down a complaint.

I gave up all hope and was worried about the fact that if my family from India calls and if I don't answer it will send alarms to them. I had no other choice but to contact them by purchasing a new phone and a sim card. I sought the help of some of the participants who were kind enough to allow me to call my number and while the call went through but nobody picked up. This added to my anxiety.

I skipped the dinner after the event and in the cold dark evening I took another taxi to my hotel. As soon as I entered my hotel the receptionist informed me that there was a call for me and the caller will try once again after 10 minutes, like a flash of thunder, a ray of hope flowered in my heart. I was thinking it must be a call from one of the Indian friends from whose phone I had called my number and it will be to inform me that the taxi driver had called back and informed the caller that my phone was with him and I could collect it. I even asked the receptionist whether the caller's accent was Indian or British. The answer was it sounded Indian. I paced up and down the lobby waiting for the call. It was like the Gypsies waiting on a full moon day for the heavenly spark to fall on them. After 10 minutes, I got a call and the receptionist handed over the phone to me. To my surprise it was my cousin whom I had tried to connect while I was enroute to the House of Commons. His question to me was, if I had lost my phone in the taxi. This came as a big surprise to me. Upon inquiry as to how he came to know about the loss of my phone in the car, he informed me that he returned my unattended call and after two or three attempts someone picked up and informed that a passenger had left the phone in his taxi. He also informed me that he was a bit worried as the call was not answered at the first attempt and he was about to inform the local police and my family in India since he suspected something bad.

I explained the series of events that had happened to me which resulted in loss of my phone. However, he comforted me by saying that he got the driver's number and had asked him to hand over the phone to my lodge and had assured that I will pay for his trip which he had to undertake to reach my lodge.

Unable to contain the anxiety I got the driver's number from my cousin and started calling him every 5 minutes from the receptionist's personal mobile. After a wait of an hour and a half the driver landed in front of my lodge and asked me to get into the taxi to make the payment which showed about £38 in his meter.

He made it clear that only after the payment he will hand over the phone to me. I was ready with a £50 note and we exchanged the phone and the currency. I did not wait to collect the balance and like a hungry dog getting the first meat of the day, I ran to the hotel lobby and thanked the receptionist profusely and made the first call to my cousin and then to my family in India.

I made a pact with my cousin to keep this as a secret between us. The next day we celebrated over wine and cheese. My cousin still takes swipe at me once in a while by exhorting the need to 'look after my mobile'.

To me this proves that miracles do happen and that there may be a power which is beyond us by whatever name we call.

The Ohana: A blissful place for K9s and Carers

Abandoning pets, especially foreign-breed dogs, has increased in India drastically. Breeding and selling dogs, has become an easy way to make money. In lockdown, many people bought puppies without proper knowledge and when their routine life started, they found it difficult to cope with them.

Dr Rubina Furtado is a well-known name, especially in Thane. She is a family physician but for the past 6 years, she has been feeding and rescuing dogs and cats. She has seen the worst part of humans sometimes while rescuing these voiceless animals. As a rescuer she regularly faces pitiful tales of pets who are given up, abandoned and in some extreme cases, euthanised as their carers were not able to cope with the pressure of getting them to confirm to acceptable behaviour. It's not easy to rescue shivering, fearful, distraught pets left to the vagaries of stray life. She decided to help city people in a different way.

Dr Rubina and Master trainer Jai Biswas, founder of burning eyes K9 Jamshedpur, are providing an opportunity for carers to consult with, and generate a fertile environment for their pets to destress and get trained under their professional leadership. They have over a decade worth of training experience in the Tata Motors Dog Squad.

Jai Biswas gives training in Obedience, behavioural temperance, and agility in dogs. These are basic prerequisites when you are keeping a canine. Canines are faithful and playful but when you neglect their basic needs and are not able to spend time with them, they become anxious and stringent to control. Every dog is unique and his or her owner must learn to read his mind. Not all pets are perfect or have the same personality but one can ensure to have a beautiful journey with their dog by nurturing this relationship by fulfilling not only the pet's physical and nutritional needs but also emotional and mental requirements.
